POPULATION OF OHIO.

We have, at some expense and trouhie, prepared from the census returns of into the British service, and had never a Letus now book at your 'purged man' -the the State, a table showing the population of such county in the State. They have there made up with all the care imaginahie, and must be as correct as such a table can wall be made. It differs in the aggregate some from the total published a few days since—the one being calculated perpendicularly, and the other ho izontally, but where the error lies we have not time to ascertain, and in fact it is of the latte importance, as it is but small a private med house, and the publish a tald.
